Walk with me, let's change your world!

Pedal, Bobbie, pedal!

Bobbie Younger was in a bad place years ago, when she found herself divorced with 2 kids. Having been out of the workforce since her younger child was born, she was facing heading back to work with fewer years of experience, none recent, and a stack of bills. Bobbie climbed out of that hole by honing her sales skills, and was successful selling beauty products to hair salons and spas for several years. Then came 2008, 2009, the layoffs and buyouts. By the time it was all over, she had been bought and sold, then laid off. Bobbie felt "used and abused" by the corporate world.

Seeking a change, as well as a career, Bobbie stumbled around for a while wondering what to do. An avid biker, she enjoyed the time pedaling, and wondered if she could somehow make a living combining her sales skills with her bicycling passion.

Cash is King!

As a "Money Coach" who specializes in helping very small businesses and new businesses, I am often asked for advice by new business owners.

"What can you tell a brand, new business owner full in the passion of his/her business?" is usually something like the question, and usually in the elevator, bathroom, or parking lot. In other words, this is NOT going to be a long conversation.

Well, the answer normally is "You can't tell 'em much!"

I don't mean to be mean or cruel, but new business owners tend to see the world with rose colored glasses, when, maybe they should be looking through shades of a darker tint. Therefore, my advice to them is:
